Party crasher gets two years

By FRANK AMATO

WILMINGTON - An 18 year old Billerica man has been sentenced to 2 years in the Billerica House of Correction in connection with an incident at a Wilmington house party September 6th, 1997.

Kevin Bellanger, was found guilty of assault and battery and not guilty on a charge of mayhem. He was arrested September 15th after a lengthy investigation by Inspector Patrick King.

According to sources, the victim, a 23 year old Wilmington resident was attending a party at a friends house, when several uninvited guests attempted to crash the party. When the victim asked the people to leave, he was assaulted by several of the crashers. During the course of the alterca-

Silver Lake reopens

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Wilmington residents hoping to cool themselves off at Silver Lake during the sunny days last week were forced to seek comfort elsewhere.

Since Friday, July 10, the lake has been at times temporarily closed due to high levels of coliform. As defined in the Webster's New World Dictionary, coliform is the aerobic bacillus normally found in the colon. It can come from geese, people or the high amount of rain we recently had.

Wilmington's Public Health Director Gregory Erickson explained that the beach was closed on July 10 and reopened on Monday, July 13, after the fecal coliform count went down. "A count of two hundred is the limit and the closing number," said Erickson. The water was tested again on Tuesday, July 14, and high levels of fecal coliform were found. The counts for fecal coliform per hundred milliliters on July 14 were 260, 3,570 and 1,680 at the town beach. Baby beach's count, which is the smaller beach close to Main St., was 170. The beach was immediately closed on Tuesday and re-opened on the following Monday, July 20. Friday's, July 17, counts at the town beach were 140, 120 and 110. Baby beach's count was 10. "Friday's sample was OK. The count was dropping rapidly over the week and was fine on Friday," assured Erickson.

The beach was tested on Tuesday, July 21 and will be tested again on Thursday, July 23 and Tuesday, July 28. "If there is a question, we will be testing two times a week or more," he noted.

Erickson stated that there is no correct answer for what could happen if a person ingested the water because they only test it as an indicator. "The feces is from the intestine of a warm blooded animal. We tested for fecal coliform and found that to be high," informed Erickson. "A person could get sick, an eye infection and diarrhea depending on the percentage of contamination."

Cleaning the lake is a combination of a natural process and a town effort. "Closing the beach does help the bacteria level go down because people can stir up bacteria that has settled at the bottom of the water," said Erickson. "We also clean up after the geese. We've been raking on the shore line."

Garfield has high hopes

BY ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Sitting in her new office, West Intermediate School Principal, Suzanne Garfield discussed her goals for the school. "I think that it will take me a while to get to know the staff, the parents and the students well enough to decide on the kinds of things I'd like to see going on in the school," shared Garfield. "As far as activities go, I think one way to approach it is to ask the students what they'd like to do. Then, find out the skills and interests the teachers have, rather than imposing what I'd like to see because each community has different needs and interests."

Garfield's first day on her new job was July 1. The Swampscott native is succeeding Jim Jordan, who was the principle for the past 13 years.

Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell hired Garfield May 18. She signed a three-year contract that will pay her $67,000 per year to work 215 days.

As a finalist for the principal position in Wilmington, Garfield was also a finalist for a similar job in several other communities. "There were a few other towns. I don't know how many, but a few," laughed Garfield. "Abington, Framingham, Dennis, Yarmouth and Canton. There were others. But, those are the towns that come to mind."

With the possibility to work in other locations, she selected Wilmington from the group. "I was very impressed with the questions that were asked at the interview [May 11], and I was interviewed in a lot of communities. The questions were very challenging. I got a sense through the questioning that the town is committed to the best possible education for the students," said Garfield.

Working in the Salem, Mass. and Swampscott school systems, she has a broad range of experiences in very different communities. "Swampscott is a small, suburban rather traditional system. I would characterize Salem as a fairly large, urban, diverse system," explained Garfield.

She spent ten years in Swampscott, teaching world language at the Swampscott Middle School and high school. Garfield then transferred over to Salem, serving as an assistant principal at the Collins Middle School for four years.

Despite the differences in the school systems, Garfield quickly adjusted to her new surroundings. "I didn't find it difficult. I found that Collins is a very welcoming school. Because I was a world language teacher, I had the opportunity to use my background in Spanish. There is a large Hispanic population [in Salem]. I think it was a positive experience for me," said Garfield.

Her ambition to become a principal stemmed from wanting to

Project presses on

By SEAN DEVLIN

WILMINGTON - The Route 38 reconstruction project is back on track due to swift intervention from local elected officials.

On Friday, Town Manager Michael Caira received notification from the Massachusetts Highway Department that the long-awaited $2.6 million widening and resurfacing of a downtown stretch of Route 38 had been removed from the list of projects set to be advertised to contractors. Originally, the project was scheduled to be advertised last July but had been postponed until the winter months. The last scheduled date for the project advertisement was July 11.

While the highway department is waiting to finalize any land takings needed for the reconstruction, Board of Selectmen Chairman and Democratic state representative candidate Michael Newhouse has criticized longtime incumbent Rep. James Miceli who has become involved with the town's project over the last year by making a commitment to see that it be funded.

"Jim Miceli has led us to believe from day one that he could move this crucial project forward," said Newhouse. "But since the original advertisement date of July 1997, we have found this vital project being further and further delayed by the state. Despite what what Rep. Miceli has been leading us to believe, the state has not demonstrated any progress for more than a year."

However, on Tuesday, Massachusetts Highway spokesman Jon Carlisle informed the Town Crier

O'Donnell signs new contract

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington School Committee has been on a bumpy ride over the past few weeks that concluded with the ratification of Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell's three-year contract.

On July 15, the school committee ratified the agreement they reached with O'Donnell in executive session at the June 10 meeting. The contract began July 1 and ends June 30, 2001.

Prior to their vote, board member Thomas Siracusa stated, "We're all very glad to see that Dr. O'Donnell will be part of our community and our system for three years. I hope her stay with us will be rewarding." O'Donnell confirmed she intends to stay in Wilmington for the length of the contract. "I do agree in principal to the multi-year contract package," she stated. "I'm really happy to be here. I do enjoy my work. I know that we have a lot of work ahead of us with the new middle school and the reorganization of other buildings."

The contract allows her to receive $91,258 this year. The following year, July 1, 1999 to June 30, 2000, increases to $94,909. Her third year gross salary is $99,756.

The Wednesday night meeting came after the committee orally reprimanded O'Donnell on July 24 for violation of its policy when she failed to show them the final draft of the contract given to the West Intermediate School Principal, Suzanne Garfield.

She selected Garfield May 18 over committee member Robert Young, who unexpectedly resigned June 24. He noted that the incident with O'Donnell sped up his decision.

Facing the possibility of termination for the violation, O'Donnell applied for a similar job in Newburyport. She became a finalist for the $90,000-plus per-year position, but withdrew her name from consideration June 29.

Committee chairperson Suzanne Spiris-Rooney stated that O'Donnell's contract was negotiated by fellow committee members Barbara Breakey and Siracusa. "I think it's a fair contract. The raises are pretty much in line with other superintendents. I'm pleased she wanted to stay in Wilmington," she expressed.

SHOULD YOU BORROW FROM YOUR 401(K)?

Time was, senior citizens rearranged their estate plans to permit them to qualify for Medicaid. Now states have tightened their eligibility laws and are even going after the estates of those who got Medicaid help. Federal law demands that states try to recoup some of their costs or lose federal Medicaid funding.

States are required to recover assets from the Medicaid recipient's probate estate, property owned in the individual's own name. Many states go further, making claims against jointly held property and putting liens on houses.

Best bet is to avoid Medicaid if you can, paying for care with savings or long-term-care insurance. Be aware of state recovery laws. With a durable power of attorney, a house can be deeded to a spouse before Medicaid eligibility starts. Do not leave assets to a Medicaid patient in a will. The state can take it. And, as a last resort, apply for a hardship waiver.

Understanding the Pain

by ANTHONY J. FERRARA
Family Therapist

Intelligent teachers have both the knowledge and expertise to teach; their intentions and goals are to help children. In truth, then, teachers play an important role in shaping the characters of children.

This importance, however, can be a two edged sword - it helps to create, but it can also destroy. The "importance" of being an effective teacher can indeed elicit overbearing procedures. If this happens, the underachieving student as well as the instructor becomes victimized by the necessary standard of performance. This same importance, however, benefits many children and teachers because of the significance of success. On the other hand if the teacher doesn't put enough importance the child will be deprived. It takes a special and sensitive combination to be an effective teacher. It is indeed a complex task. First of all; the teacher must know the material he/she is presenting. Then he/she must present the subject matter in such a way that it is understandable, non-threatening, and interesting. Sadly at times, all of this is not enough for some children, unless they are blessed with that special teacher who has all of above, plus the art of motivating.

The achieving students are fortunate because they can experience success on their own, in an area in which acceptance is so important. For such a child, school is a series of triumphs. He can raise his hand, knowing he has the right answer, or he can submit a paper and have it returned marked with an "excellent" or "good" job. This victory can be shared and appreciated by others. The paper can be admired by friends and parents.

This positive and powerful involvement of "the others" inspires and motivates the child to bigger and better things. After all, he is making it in an area where it must be made.

Imagine the poor child who must go to school each day, but whose work earns him only a failing or poor grade! He dares not raise his hand for fear of coming up with the wrong answer. His returned paper is usually hidden from others. However, this underachiever also needs recognition and acceptance. He, too, has heard how important education will be to his later life. However, human longings only make his situation more painful. More pressure, tension, and confusion are added by such comments as, "You must do better," "What is to become of you?" or "You are too lazy to try." This overwhelming concern usually causes the child to slip and fail even more, causing parents and teachers to intensify the pace. More hours of study at school and home are forced upon the child, adding more hours of misery.

I'm sure parents' and teachers' intent is to advance the child's knowledge. However, they must know when to back off. If anything, I can appreciate their dilemma. The child who constantly is told how to complete a lesson or task but never seems to understand the instructions, indeed can be a drain. However, the teacher finds relief when she leaves school. What about the child whose home becomes an extension of school? The child is now literally in the public arena for all his waking hours. Even dad is so concerned that the few hours of time that he spends with his child are an exercise in correction. He too, gets into the act and spends his free time "tutoring" his child.

This precious time could have better been spent fishing, playing ball, hiking, or talking. These mutual, "self-fulfilling involvements" could have brought enjoyment to both, but instead, Johnny is once more drained. Rather than being exposed to areas of potential strength, he is once again recognized only for his weaknesses. How sad for the child! He is not allowed to give, to inspire, or to be accepted. Instead, he will be helped.

Stress is a large and significant contributing factor in the dilemma of the underachiever. The stress of which I speak is not only the burden of not learning, but of being subjected to the scrutiny of the all-important "others." Will they reject? Will they take away their love? Coming to task with the answers may be the most painful of all.

Before other reasons can be blamed for today's crisis, let us be sure that we have eliminated the possibility of excessive stress which can cause confusion, disorientation, mental blockage, withdrawal, or "acting out" behavior.

Stress is not a new factor in diagnosing reasons for failure. Adults have long recognized this when weighing their own behavior. Everyone can understand the stress of a family man faced with the loss of his job or a woman bereaved by the death of her mate or child. It is accepted knowledge that persons under stress can suffer an impaired ability to think or of motivating to act at all. Are not children, after all, maturing adults whose behavior can also be influenced by their personal problems as well?

Children are no different. If anything, the underachiever may have a grater burden on his shoulders because there is no let-up, no release from this tension. Time can be the best healer in all medicine. It can heal the ravages of a traumatic incident, but it cannot weave magic when the hurt and pain keeps building up during each of a child's academic life.

If these children are to be helped, we the parents and teachers must have a greater understanding of their pain.

Will try to answer any parenting questions.

TOWN CRIER NEWS NOTE: The news that the Rt 38 widening is now on again after being off again AND the MBTA train station project squabble AND the replacement of the bridge in the middle of it all leads one to wonder if anyone will ever get to use the James R. Miceli Bridge in Wilmington.

Letters to the Editor

Take heed of the words of Jefferson

Dear Editor:
I certainly was pleased to read in your newspaper of Mr. Michael Newhouse's views concerning gun control. It simply amazes me that men who seek such prominence as a representative of the people are so totally uninformed and ill-read on the wonderful piece of legislation drawn up in Colonial times against the King of England; namely The United States Constitution.

Drawn up by a group of men giving freedoms and rights to all men regardless of race, color or creed. Simply be good, upstanding Americans. Among these rights is the right to bear arms. I am a gun owner, have been for the longest time and for some knee-jerking political hack who attempts to make his way up the political ladder by preying on the fears and emotions of others, namely the elderly living alone, the incapacitated or the handicapped. To me, these types of men and their thinking belong nowhere upon the face of the American Political Spectrum. They belong in a circus or side-show some place in the Land of Oz, because there is no truth to their political rhetoric. It's all smoke and mirrors.

Personally voted for Rep. James Miceli. Always have, always will. Because he's a seasoned professional, who knows damn well right there's already enough legislation, and use of firearms and any more is just so much fodder. He voted against the gun bill and lost, but he was not alone, neither in the state legislature nor here on the home front. But that's politics - sad to say. You win some, you lose some. Just a note to let Mr. Richard Towle of Wilmington know that he's not alone with his feelings and sentiments.

In closing I would like to humbly borrow a quote from the late Thomas Jefferson, one of the writer's of Our Constitution: He said at one time, "That obedience to tyrants is disobedience to God." Something we had all better remember.

Thank you,
William R. Brookings

Coverage on Hubby lacked professionalism

Dear Editor:
How proudly you take credit for your front page story and photo of Buddy Hubby (July 15th edition). "Wilmington Police Officer Arrested" - is that the story or the catchy headline you needed to grab the attention of your readers. The media has too much power - you sir, lack professionalism - especially in photojournalism. This picture of Buddy is what people will remember - people like his family and friends - they won't remember that you took the picture although you, Mr. Amato, may think it a shining moment in your career.

I wonder if you understand how much damage this picture is capable of producing - you only helped to destroy Buddy Hubby's credibility - whether innocent or guilty - it's not for you to decide.

Would you have printed this picture if his last name was Amato? I think Not.

E.G. Block
Wilmington

Just as you expected

The more things change the more they remain the same. This is the response you expected. The Town Crier (and the Lowell Sun) carried the story of Officer Hubby's arrest on the front page last week because it was news. It was important news.

The newspapers did not invent the story. Officer Hubby put himself in that position. When an ordinary citizen breaks the law it makes the news. When a police officer, who is supposed to be protecting the public from people who break the law, breaks the law, it makes the front page. It did this time and it will next time.

The Thompson Family

Remembering Thompson's Grove and the Maine

by CAPT. LARZ NELSON

Claude Thompson, born in Woburn in 1877 was not a member of the many Thompson families of Eastern Massachusetts. His parents, John and Sarah Stokes Thompson were born in Sackville, New Brunswick, and had moved to Woburn about the time of the U.S. Civil War.

There were two, or possibly more children. Wilson and Claude, both born in Woburn, moved to Wilmington. Both were born sometime after the U.S. Civil War.

Wilson Thompson worked in the leather shops of North Woburn and rode home to Wilmington each evening on a bicycle. He lived at the end of the street now called Miller Road, off Glen Road. His was a sedentary life.

Claude Thompson joined the U.S. Marines, and was assigned to the Heavy Cruiser USS Maine, some time about 1896.

That was about two years before the Spanish American War. The worldly attitude, as far as Spain was concerned was not peaceful. There was no longer a Spanish kingdom, and men of Cuba were not happy about events in Spain.

The USS Maine sailed south from New York in 1897, and into the Port of Norfolk, Virginia. Some of the Marines were given a "liberty" to go ashore, Claude being among them. They were enjoying on the town" when the police arrested them. They were put in jail by the Norfolk police.

The USS Maine sailed south to Cuba without them.

That was a lucky event for those Marines. They were not on board that ship when it was destroyed by an explosion in the harbor of Havana, Cuba.

It is to be believed that after Claude left the Marines he married a Woburn girl named Florence Phelps.

Her father owned a 20 acre farm in Wilmington and when he died Florence inherited the property. Claude and Florence thus found that they were living across Harnden Street from the family of Christian and Stine Neilson, at the corner of Harnden and Main Streets in Wilmington.

Today that farm is the site of St. Dorothy's Church at the corner of Main Street and Harnden Street in Wilmington. There are about eight acres of grassland and about seven acres of pine trees. The grassland extended between Harnden Street and Brattle Street, except for areas where Claude cultivated. It extended from a farm across from the property of Christian "Pop" Neilson. The driveway extended off Harnden Street and there was a chestnut tree where that driveway turned right, and down toward the grove along Main Street.

Florence Thompson was a lady who knew what to do. In the pine tree area, along Main Street, she constructed a substantial dance hall with a platform of substantial size to accommodate an orchestra.

Thompson's Grove became a money maker. There were several hundred dancers in the hall every week, sometimes more than once a week. Without any doubt, Florence was the responsible authority.

There was a Main Street entrance to the grove, with a swinging gate. Beside that gate a small store was constructed, with tonics and cigarettes for sale. They had a son, Claude. Young Claude, about 1920 found himself the storekeeper when he was not in school.

Sundays the dance hall and the store were closed. Claude and Florence drove to the Methodist Church, in their carriage, with young Claude and this writer sitting in back, feet dangling because they were riding backward. It was a nice ride, to the tune of the hoofs of the horse.

The Methodist Church in those days was on Church Street, but beside the present structure, close to Thurston Avenue. The cellar was the site of the Sunday School. Today that church area is a lawn, with the present church building beside it. Nina Kinkaid (Mrs. Herbert) Barrows ran the Sunday School. Alice (Mrs. Fred) Roberts was her assistant and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton was the lady who would count the pennies after the collection.

It was a pleasant event, worth remembering. On the way home Claude would drive the horse up to the north end of the Wilmington Common, where the town kept a large watering trough and a pump. There were no places to buy gas, but many where a horse watering trough was located with a pump, always filled with water.

Claude Jr. and this writer enrolled in a troop of Boy Scouts of which Hubert E. Cann was the Scoutmaster. He was a Canadian War Veteran who had served as a motor cyclist in Siberia and who lived near the Boston & Maine at the end of Grove Avenue.

Another Boy Scout was Al Marfleet, a man who made a fine record for himself in World War II. Claude married Al's sister, Muriel.

After he graduated from school he attended Harvard and made a fine record for himself, becoming a dentist, and graduating with honors.

Claude Thompson, DMD died on the 12th of April 1986.

Garfield has high hopes

have more of an opportunity to effect change. Garfield stated that under the law, principals have the authority and responsibility for the school buildings. "I feel really fortunate that I've had the experiences that I have so I can see what I've liked in the communities in which I've worked, and I can bring those experiences to Wilmington. It's more difficult to make those changes as an assistant principal," she said.

Factoring into Garfield's decision to apply for the West Intermediate job was the future merger of the two middle schools. A process which occurred in Salem in 1994.

"I thought it would be very exciting to get in on the planning," shared Garfield. "I did learn a lot about the process they used [in Salem] to make the merger happen and to make it successful."

The recent disciplinary hearing to determine whether O'Donnell violated school committee policy when she failed to show them the final draft of Garfield's contract has remained a separate issue for her. "I believe it really doesn't have anything to do with me professionally. I'm here to do the best job I can do," said Garfield.

The hearing resulted in an oral reprimand for O'Donnell.

One of her tasks for the school year will be looking into a drama program. "I think it's a good outlet for students at this age level because they can get involved in a lot of different ways. There's the technical aspect, the crew and being on stage. It is a good way for students to make a connection to school like they do with other activities," stated Garfield.

Steven Smith in Mediterranean

WILMINGTON - Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Steven G. Smith, son of George K. and Donna C. Smith of 15 Crest Avenue, Wilmington, and a 1994 graduate of Wilmington High School, recently took part in Exercise Destined Glory while on a six month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Wasp.

Smith's ship participated in the multinational NATO exercise along with 25 ships from great Britain, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and the United States. The two week exercise tested and enhanced the capabilities of a combined NATO Amphibious Task Force in the Mediterranean Sea.

Ships like USS Wasp are deployed around the world to maintain a U.S. presence and provide a rapid response in times of crisis. Sailors and Marines like Smith are often the first to arrive in situations ranging from humanitarian relief efforts to combat operations.

Petty Officer Smith joined the Navy in December, 1994.

Wilmington woman allegedly threatens Winchester Hospital

WINCHESTER - A 44-year-old Wilmington woman ironically ended up at Winchester Hospital Wednesday after she was placed in protective custody after allegedly making a telephone threat to the hospital.

According to Wilmington and local police, a nurse on duty at the hospital emergency room took a phone call Wednesday morning from a woman. Local police said they were notified by the hospital as the call was underway that the woman was threatening to "shut down" the hospital.

Quick thinking by the nurse resulted in keeping the caller on the line, allowing the call to be traced and, in fact, police said the caller may even have identified herself.

However, police and fire units responded according to procedure as if there had been a bomb threat, and mutual aid was called to cover the fire station.

Wilmington police were notified and went to the woman's home and after assessing her as being drunk, placed her in protective custody, according to Wilmington police. Later she was sent to Winchester Hospital for medical evaluation.

It means another day to share your time.

It means a primary care doctor working closely with a cardiologist.

What does it mean to be a Lahey patient?

It means fewer doubts.

It means a team approach.

It means a single room.

It means another day to share your wisdom.

It means world-renowned cardiac surgeons.

It means one of the largest heart surgery programs in the Boston area.

It means the latest procedures.

It means world-class care.

It means community locations.

It means another day to share your laughter.

It means another day to share your life.

Heart disease affects many people. The patient. The patient's family. And if the patient is a Lahey patient, it affects a whole team of primary care physicians, cardiac specialists, nurses and technologists. Our patient-focused, team approach to healthcare is the reason we've been so successful diagnosing and treating heart disease. From primary care practices in 37 towns to world-class medical centers in Burlington, Peabody and Arlington, we mean the world to cardiac patients. And they mean the world to us.

Animals of the Rainforest coming to Tewksbury library

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury's Patten Public Library has invited residents to join in two events in the summer children's programming. Michelle Lunceford, of Michelle's Menagerie, will introduce animals of the rainforest. Karen Glickman will present her program Deaf Awareness and You. Admission to these programs is free.

Monday, July 27, Michelle will hold two Rainforest Animals programs at the public library. A program for three to six-year-olds will begin at 1:30 p.m. and a second program for ages seven and up will begin at 2:30. Attendance is limited to 30 children per program. Please sign up at the library.

Michelle's Rainforest Program includes many exotic animals, some of which could become extinct in the wild with the present rate of rainforest destruction. She teaches the children about the different animals, their care, and their natural habitat. The children are not allowed to handle the animals.

On Thursday, July 30, Karen's presentation will be held in the Town Hall Auditorium. She will teach her audience about Deaf Culture, Working Dogs, American Sign Language, Electronic Assistive Devices for the Deaf, Interpreters, and more. Karen is one of Massachusetts' leading deaf educators. She holds a Deaf American, B.S. from Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C., the only Deaf Liberal Arts University in the world. Her program provides an understanding of Deaf Culture that helps to bridge the gap of misunderstanding between hearing and deaf people, with humor and kindness. The program is recommended for ages five through adult and will run for approximately one hour.

These programs are supported in part by grants from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council. A complete listing of children's activities for the summer is now available at the Public Library.

BOSTON - More than 65 students were honored recently by Wentworth Institute of Technology at its annual student awards ceremony. Alonardo, Class of '99, a telecommunications and fiber optics major, was cited for membership in Tau Alpha Pi, the national honor society for engineering technology majors.

Extracurricular activities

Better grades will be required

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - Wilmington High School students who participate in extracurricular activities will be facing stricter rules in the upcoming school year.

Principal Edward Woods explained to Wilmington School Committee members the tougher requirements at their July 19 meeting. He reported that students must carry at least 30 credits, pass 25 of those credits and maintain a 65 or better grade-point average in order to participate in activities like athletics, student council and drama. Under the current policy, students are required to carry 20 credits and pass a percentage of the credits in order to engage in extracurricular activities.

Woods confirmed that the policy is going to be very stringent. "Five and six courses can be quit a lot for the kids to be taking on. Passing 25 credits is a big step," he noted.

Progress reports would be given to students four weeks into every term, according to Woods. The reports would also be given to the coaches. "If the student is failing or is in danger of failing, the student will be placed on academic probation for the remainder of the term," said Woods. "The student will have to go to the teacher at least once per week for help during the probation. If the teacher feels that the student is making significant progress, then he or she will be allowed to participate. If not, the student will be removed from the activity until the grade is passing."

Woods said he applied the new requirements to the 50-member football team. Only one student who carried five courses and two students carrying six courses did not meet the standards. Woods found the results to be excellent. "I didn't know what to expect. I knew there weren't a lot of people flunking off the team and that it would be minimal. But, I was pleased with those numbers."

Using the 200 students who participated in spring sports, Woods stated that nine students failed one course and six students failed two courses.

Board members commended the new policy. "Extracurricular activities and education should be combined and not separate entities," said committee member Stephen Peterson. "Studies show [activities] will probably improve the student's self esteem and ultimately their grades."

Woods said he would eventually like an oversight committee established consisting of coaches, teachers and athletic director

James Gillis.

In other news, overcharging by driver education provider Agganis Driving School last year forced the committee to select a new bidder.

Wilmington's Director of Administration and Finance, Bradford Jackson announced at the board meeting that he completed his investigation of complaints of overcharging by Agganis Driving School. Jackson's letter to the committee reads, "Christopher Agganis, President of Agganis Driving School has admitted that 'some students that selected to take their license exam on a Saturday were charged mistakenly again for the road test service.'"

Jackson said that they have agreed to issue a refund, under his supervision, to the students. Agganis also requested that their bid for the period July 1, 1998 through June 30, 1999 be withdrawn as a result of the investigation.

The committee awarded the driver education bid to Agganis Driving School in June. They were the lowest bidder, with Exlent Auto School of Winthrop, Mass. as the second lowest bidder.

Jackson recommended that the school committee award the bid to Exlent Auto School, assuring them that he has taken steps to prevent this from occurring again.

"I've checked their references and received positive recommendations. Obviously we need to supervise this program a little better than we have in the past," stated Jackson. "I'm putting together some oversight rules and regulations that I will be overseeing the correspondence and discussion of. I can ask for accounting of receipts and do spot checking in the community."

He will be sending letters to last year's participants who he has in his records. Jackson also plans on getting a copy of all of the vendor's records and corresponding with everyone they have on their list as well. "I'm going to be receiving the requests for reimbursements as opposed to having them sent directly to the company. I'm going to be working on behalf of the people who are entitled to reimbursements," he confirmed.

Jackson has attempted to determine whether Agganis has overcharged students for more than one year. But did not completely follow up on this yet, he said.

After Jackson's report, the committee awarded the bid to Exlent Auto School.

The great scholarship search

By: JENNIFER REALE

Tewksbury - As I prepare for my senior high school, many things are beginning to enter my mind. These things are centered around a variety of subjects, but particularly my future. In my case, my future holds college. I already know this, so one thing is taken care of. We won't get into figuring out where I am going to go to school, what I am going to go to school for, or any of the other stuff. A major concern that I have been contemplating lately is how I am going to pay for this future education. I know that my parents will pay for some of it, but I don't know how much. I know that if I go to the University of Massachusetts at Lowell I will be all set. I will live at home, and my parents would probably cover most of the cost. But, then there is Merrimack College. I am interested in Accounting, and they are supposed to have a pretty good program. While I will still be able to live at home, tuition is higher. Then there is Bentley. I would live away, and tuition is currently about $17,000. So, how am I going to pay for these four years of my life?

One night I found myself sitting in front of my computer thinking about all of this. I decided to go on-line and do a search of scholarships. I found some interesting stuff. The first was an article about how there is supposedly a scholarship for everyone out there, you just need to know about them. The article focused on a tall girl who received a scholarship that only requirement was that you are tall. That got me thinking even more, and led me to another web site.

Here I found an article talking about on-line scholarship searches. It said that there are companies that will do a detailed search for scholarships that fit you, for a fee, usually about 25 dollars. The article also said that there were a variety of web sites that will do a search at no cost. One of the featured sites was www.fastweb.com, which I quickly went to. Here I filled out a detailed questionnaire, and created a profile of myself. After submitting this profile, a list of about 20 scholarships which I was eligible for came up. It gave me the odds for each scholarship, the deadline, the requirements, and the contact address. I found all of this information to be very helpful, and it made me feel a little better. I have written to some of the sponsors for further information, and in the fall I will know a little bit about what to ask my guidance counselor about certain scholarships. Another cool thing about Fastweb is that once my profile is there, and my account is set up, they will constantly update it, so I can check about once a week, and find out about new scholarships all the time.

Wilmington Minutemen celebrate Old Ironsides' 200th birthday

Cannons from Wilmington and surrounding towns will roar as Old Ironsides, the USS Constitution glides past the Coast Guard Station in Boston's North End on Thursday. As part of the international salute to the oldest commissioned ship in the US Navy, members of the Wilmington Minutemen will join other colonials as they fire a 21 gun salute to the Constitution. The artillery units, "Grey" from Wilmington, "Hope" from Burlington, "Black Rose" from Burlington, "Acorn" from Woburn and two pieces from the Royal Irish Artillery of Billerica will fire appropriate cannon salutes to each of the Tall Ships as they sail past.

Under the command of Brigadier General Frank D. Curley, of Wilmington will fire about 1 p.m. on Thursday. These are the same guns that have fired the salute from South Boston's Castle Island every Fourth of July since 1982 as Old Ironsides goes out for her annual "turn-around".

South & Main Sts Walgreen's Pharmacy proposal needs further work

By ERIN DOWNING

TEWKSBURY - It was standing room only at town hall as the Tewksbury Planning Board discussed the proposal to locate a Walgreen's Pharmacy and a retail center at 2341 Main Street.

They would be placed across from the South Street fire station. The site is presently occupied by a house and woods.

Engineers presented the board on July 13 with the proposed plans for the 13,830 sq. ft. Walgreen's Pharmacy and 9,000 sq. ft. retail center. Attorney Richard O'Neill explained that Foster's Corner Realty Trust owns both parcels of land. Walgreen's has a purchase and sale agreement to purchase the site, according to O'Neill.

A Walgreen's Pharmacy was previously proposed in December by Greener Pastures at the corner of Main St. and South St. O'Neill stated that the proposal was withdrawn in April as a result of the parking requirements. "The location across the street allows for the building to be there without negatively impacting on the parking requirements," said O'Neill. "The intersection of Main St. and Salem St. also provided some traffic concerns for the planning board. Those concerns are greatly lessened at the Main St. location."

South St. resident Patricia Pondelli expressed that the possible decrease in her property value was a more pressing issue. "I'm a direct abutter to lot b [the retail center] and I'm against this project," said Pondelli. "I just refinanced my house and I was told by a representative from Century 21 that my property value decreases if I can see the building and dumpsters."

Richard Cuoco, with Cuoco and Cormier, admitted that landscaping has been a major issue. Board member Frank Sweet suggested planting trees on the site to help amend the problem.

The audience applauded board member Cheryl Busch after she criticized the architectural designs for Walgreen's. "You're not taking into consideration the residents," said Busch. "You can develop this with a little bit more sensitivity. This has a long way to go before I can consider endorsing it."

O'Neill told board members that they have listened to their concerns. "We'll work on it so it [the building] is not as intrusive," he said.

The Walgreen's site provides 84 parking spaces. The retail center accommodates 50 parking spaces. They will share entrances from Main St. and South St. Kenneth Cram, with Vanasse and Associates, assured the board that the two entrances will help disperse the traffic.

Cram conducted a traffic study at the site and noted a problem with the timing of the lights at the Main St. and South St. intersection. "New lights would improve the situation and decrease delays," said Cram.

O'Neill added to his comment, stating, "Cars coming onto Main St. from South St. can't get through quick enough. Upgrading the lights would help this."

O'Neill said that they will contact the Massachusetts Highway Department to determine whether the lights can be upgraded and the cost to do this.

The board continued the hearing to August 10. O'Neill explained that the meeting was only a preliminary one to discuss the plans and to receive input from abutters.

SOLD!

Some things are hard to measure, and others are easy. Success in a real estate sale is easy. It occurs when the "SOLD" sign is in your front yard. And having that occur as quickly as possible is another goal.

You have undoubtedly heard that old saying about the "hard way" and the "easy way" to do something. The hard way to get the "SOLD" sign up is to try and sell it yourself. And the easy way is to use the services of a sales professional someone who is not only trained to get it sold ASAP, but to get as much for your home as the market will bear.

Remember, the agent doesn't get paid until your home is "SOLD". And the amount they earn in commission is dependent upon the amount of the sale. That's a lot of genuine motivation to do the job right. So save yourself headaches and frustration when you are ready to sell—call a professional Realtor.

Local hopes tradition continues

Fourth field hockey coach this decade

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For the third time this decade, a new field hockey coach has been introduced at Wilmington High. Patricia "Patti" Cushing, a 38-year-old Wilmington resident, has been named to the post, taking over for Maureen Noone, who resigned two months ago to take the vacant job at Andover High.

Cushing becomes the fourth coach this decade as Jan Cassidy-Wood, Jan Urquhart and Noone have all resigned from their posts after successful reigns. Cushing played field hockey at Tewksbury High at the varsity level from 1975-'78 where she was an all-star in her junior season. She was injured most of her senior year. After a few years had passed, her varsity coach Bonnie Roberts called her to see if Cushing would be her assistant as the junior varsity coach. She did that from '84-'85 and hasn't coached since.

"I'm really excited and honored to be named," Cushing said. "I will try to keep up the winning tradition and hopefully the girls will have a fun season. Jan Cassidy was always an idol of mine, I wished I played for her. When I played at Tewksbury we always wondered what her secret was for all of those great teams. I don't know Maureen [Noone], but I would like to keep the tradition going that she did."

Cushing takes over a program that has missed the state tournament only once this decade. The past two seasons under Noone, the team has brought home a league championship, and a winning percentage around .750. Both of Noone's teams were eliminated in the first round of the state tournament. Prior to that, Urquhart held the post for two seasons after twenty as an assistant under Cassidy-Wood. She too led the team to a post season appearance, getting knocked out in the second round. Under Cassidy the team always went deep into the state tournament, as she posted over 200 wins in her brilliant career.

"Field Hockey has always been a love of mine and when I saw the opening I called and met with [athletic director] Jimmy [Gillis]. I know there's five seniors coming back including all-star goalie Patrice Mendoza, other than that I don't know much. I just hope the girls will be conditioned right when the season starts."

Cushing will make her coaching debut at home on September 10th against Masco.

13 year old baseball All-Star team clubbing their way to victories

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Sandwiched between a tough last inning loss, the Wilmington 13-year-old baseball all-star team bombed Stoneham twice, sending the Spartans packing and the Cats onto the District finals. With their latest win, -- a 13-2 Mercy Rule victory on Tuesday -- the Cats will play North Reading for the second time in a week on Wednesday. Should they win, they will play the following night against those same Hornets with the site and time to be announced.

The tourney started for this talented crew on Saturday night. With just three teams in the district, Wilmington played Stoneham while North Reading got the first round bye. Wilmington slugged their way to a 19-5 victory including plating 11 runs in the top of the first. In that win, Billy Sinopoli went the distance on the hill, pitching very well and he was helped out by many teammates. John McMahan, Greg Buck and Tom Doyle paced the

Seniors put up two spot before getting eliminated

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

If only they could have played North Reading every game.

That was the motto for the Wilmington senior league all-star baseball team.

With just three teams including themselves in their bracket, the seniors beat North Reading twice and lost to Stoneham twice to get bounced from the double elimination tournament. They did all of that in a span five days.

On Friday, the team traveled to North Reading and after seven full innings the game was tied and concluded on Saturday. Derek Trueira started on the hill for Wilmington and all he did was toss seven innings, striking out ten batters and leave with the rest of the team with the game noddled at three.

On Saturday, the game was completed as Steve Brown came through with a double to plate Derek McLaren with the winning run in the bottom of the eighth. Brown was 3-for-3 in the win including three RBI, while, Matt Coyne drove in the other run. Trueira notched the win with a scoreless inning.

The next day, Sunday, the team was again on the road this time at Stoneham. Before anyone knew it Wilmington trailed 10-0. The lone bright spots for the home towners were Brown's two hits, Coyne's double and George Godding's triple. Monday the see-saw went back on Wilmington's side as again they traveled to North Reading and again they won the odd numbered game. This time around the team led 8-1, then gave the Hornets a seven spot, only to win it in the last inning on a base hit from Trueira. On the mound, Trueira got the save, shutting it down for reliever Scott Winn who came on for Godding. Bob French led the way with the aluminum with a 3-for-4 night, missing the cycle with the round tripper.

Trueira was back again on the mound on Tuesday night, going to the sixth inning. He didn't get much offensive support with just one run on three hits against the tough Stoneham team. The final score was 7-1.

Softball All-Star team brings out the bats to stay alive

Major League All Stars
Wilmington 17 Wakefield 1
The Wilmington Major League All-Star softball team defeated Wakefield American in second round action of the District 13 tournament played at Wilmington's Rotary Park.

Heather Rogers continued her consistent pitching by holding Wakefield to a single hit and three walks in four innings. Wilmington again jumped out to an early lead in the first inning with lead off walk to Lani Cabal Pini followed an RBI single by Shannon Fahey. Kristin Burns followed with an RBI double and Wilmington was off and running to a four-run inning.

Wilmington scored a single run in the second, five in the third and put the game away with seven unanswered runs in the fourth. Offensive stars of the game were Shannon Fahey with three hits and four RBI, Lauren Rappoli with a two-run triple and Gina Ranno with two hits, two walks and three runs scored. Katie Riley and Allison Flynn contributed on defense with strong outfield play to hold the undermanned Wakefield team scoreless over the last three innings.

Wilmington 18
Woburn American 8

The Wilmington Major League All-Star softball team continued its winning ways by defeating Woburn American in a rematch of their opening round game. Lani Cabal-Pini opened the game with a perfectly executed bunt single which was followed by an outstanding leaping catch by Woburn's second baseman of Shannon Fahey's line drive.

After a misplayed ball at first and a walk, Corey Iosue came up with a line single to center for two RBI's. After hitting around in the first and scoring three runs, Lani Cabal-Pini again opened an inning with a finely executed bunt single to start Wilmington's second three-run rally. Kristin Burns delivered the key blow with a two-run single.

After an uneventful third, Wilmington attempted to put the game away with seven runs in the top of the fourth. The rally began with three walks to the middle of the order, followed by a couple of ground outs and then six consecutive hits.

Woburn went to be "slaughtered" by the same team twice. They came up with four runs in their half of the fourth. Heather Rogers, going for her third win of the tournament, began to show signs of fatigue under the 90 degree temperature as Woburn scored three runs in their half of the fifth to cut the score to 13 to 8.

Wilmington responded with five runs in the top of the sixth to put the game away for good. Lani Cabal-Pini collected her fourth hit, Shannon Fahey doubled and Kristin Burns singled to make any thoughts of a Woburn comeback fade in the July heat.

Wilmington would like to commend the Woburn American players and coaches for their sportsmanship.

On Tuesday night, the girls continued their winning ways with a 21-7 thrashing over Woburn National played at Rotary Park.

After only one run in the first, a RBI by Wilmington's Kristin Burns, Wilmington took control in the second, sending 14 batters to the plate and scoring ten runs on six hits and five walks. Gina Rano hit a screeching line drive that hit Woburn's pitcher in the ankle, forcing her to leave the game.

Woburn answered in their half of the inning with only one run. Things quieted down in the third for Wilmington who scored two more runs on three walks and a hit by Allison Flynn. Woburn scored four runs on two hits and five walks as the unbeaten Heather Rogers began to tire in the heart.

Wilmington put the game away for good in the fourth inning with eight runs, highlighted by hits from Rogers, Lauren Rappoli, and Burns. Good team play by Julie Martel, Megan Hand, Katie Riley, and Corey Iosue, as they all kept everyone's spirits up on a hot night.

In a rematch from last year, Wilmington now advances to face the unbeaten Wakefield National team at Rotary Park at 5:45 on Wednesday. Because they have already lost one game in this double elimination tournament, Wilmington will have to beat Wakefield twice. Wilmington's tournament record is 4-1. Because of a bye, Wakefield is 2-0. Good luck to the girls and congratulations on a great tournament.

Wilmington Nationals off to quick start in Jimmy Fund Tournament

Wilmington Summer Baseball's entry into the Jimmy Fund Tournament, the Wilmington Nationals, led by manager Tony Aresco and coaches Gina Rizzo and Kenny Luongo, are off to a fast start going 3-0 in the first week of action.

The Wilmington Sons of Italy sponsored 10-year-old team, started play Monday, July 13, with a resounding 28-9 victory over Acton at Rotary Park. Zack Mayo pitched a strong three innings allowing only two runs on one hit, while striking out six and walking just three on the way to his first win of the season.

The high powered National offense would score in each of their five innings and belt out 19 hits in doing so. The hot hitters for the Nationals were Dave Griffin, Sean Murphy and Jeremy Schuh each with three hits. Scott Dunnett and Dave Rizzo each connected with an extra base hit, a triple and double respectively. Defensively for the Nationals' Shane Foley played a great game in left field, while the infield was solidly anchored down by Tim Miele and Jeff Youngclaus.

Game two was played on Wednesday the 15th against cross town rivals the Wilmington (Americans) A's. The Nationals came away with a hard fought 15-7 win over manager Dan Brandano and his crew. Sean Murphy started for the Nationals and picked up his first win of the season, striking out seven, walking none and allowing no runs on two hits in three innings of work.

Scott Dunnett and Shane Foley followed Murphy to the mound to mop up the win for the Nationals. Offensive stars for the Nationals were Sean Murphy who went three for three with a triple and three runs scored and Zack Mayo who had a double and a triple and scored twice. Others contributing with the bat included James Good, Dave Doucette, Jeff Youngclaus and Tom Miele. Defensive contributions were made by Dave Rizzo who made a nice catch at second base and Aldo Cairra who saved a possible extra base hit to right field.

The third game of the hat trick week for the Nationals took place on the 17th at the North Intermediate Field. An undefeated Weston team came in and went home on the short end of a 6-4 game. In a game of near perfect pitching and flawless defense, the Nationals swept to their third victory in a row on the arms of Zack Mayo and Sean Murphy. Mayo would pick up his second win of the season pitching three innings of two hit baseball, allowing only one run on two hits while striking out four and walking only one.

Murphy recorded his first save of the year giving up three runs on two hits and striking out three with no walks in three innings of work. The offensive stars of the game were Tom Miele with two hits and a walk, and Dave Griffin, Dave Rizzo,

Mike Frissore, Dave Doucette and Aldo Cairra each with run producing hits.

On the defensive side, Josh Mayo, Jeremy Schuh and Jim Good came up with outstanding plays to keep the tough Weston team off the bases.

The Wilmington Nationals get back to work on Wednesday the 22nd, after a bye on Monday the 20th at the North Intermediate and again on Friday the 24th.

8 locals lead Central in HNIB

by Jamie Pote
Sports Editor

The Hockey Night in Boston sophomore classic finished up its two-weeks of play at Merrimack College and eight Wilmington locals not only played, but they all played on the same Central team.

On Monday, those eight players played its final regular scheduled game against a team from Buffalo, New York and that ride was a tough one, losing 10-1. The lone goal for Central came from the trio line of Wilmington natives Dave Silva, Dennis Sullivan and Mike Whitney. Trailing 1-0 at the time, Silva notched a tally drilling home a rebound on the power play with an assist going to Whitney.

Thereafter it was all Buffalo, scoring nine goals over the next 50 minutes (the game had two 20 minute periods and two ten minute periods). Some of those were weak, however, when Wilmington native

Jim McGonagle played the middle two periods, none of the three goals he let in were weak as he made 11 saves including a few gems.

Other locals include left wingers Scott Aldrich and Mike Montalto as well as defensemen Mike Comer and Bill Scholl. Silva attends St. John's Prep, Sullivan and McGonagle are at Austin Prep, Aldrich, is at Belmont Hill, Scholl is at Groton School, while, Montalto, Comer and Whitney attend WHS.

On Tuesday the team entered a one game playoff and they beat the Midwest Team of the state 6-3. The Wilmington players all had a major part of success in the win as Silva scored twice, while Sullivan and Aldrich had single tallies. Comer and Scholl played solidly as did McGonagle inbetween the pipes. Whitney and Montalto as usual showed strong hustle.

Big doin's at the town hall playground

WILMINGTON - The summer playground at the town hall is full of excitement! The playgrounders began the week of July 6 making "Butterfly Beauties" during arts and crafts on Monday.

Tuesday, 7/7, they went on a field trip to Funland for a day of mini golf, batting cages, go-carts and video games.

On the way home, the children stopped at Dandi-Lyons in Tewksbury for a cool treat!

Wednesday, 7/8, the Playground's annual Hockey Tournament took place. Winners in the six to nine age group were "Team Nike," and the winners for the age 10 and up group were "Team Buddha."

Thursday, 7/9, was another fun-filled day as the children enjoyed a day at Silver Lake Beach for Playground Beach Day. Playgrounders had a great time playing in the sand, using the new play equipment, swimming and competing in a volleyball tournament.

Friday, 7/10, the children got a chance to relax their bodies and exercise their minds during a Quiet Games Challenge. The ultimate Checker champion was Stephanie Ramsdell. Kevin Carter triumphed in Jenga, and Jerry Gagne won the Uno Tournament. Though it was a tough competition, Jon Stark was the overall Connect Four champion.

The children recognized this week for being polite, cooperative playgrounders were "Playgrounders of the Week," Jimmy Good and Megan Godding. "Volunteers of the Week" were Mike Halas and Bethany Mutchler. They have been wonderful and supportive role models for the playgrounders.

offense with three hits each, while, Craig Osgood, Ryan Tildsley and Pat Maloney had two each in the 18-hit attack.

On Monday afternoon the team hosted North Reading even with their loud and annoying parents. Wilmington had a 3-2 going to the seventh inning without a hit. North Reading, on the other hand, scored just two runs off starter Tildsley, one on a throwing error and the other on back-to-back doubles. All in all, Tildsley pitched excellent, yielding just six hits and walking just two, the lead-off hitters in the first and second innings.

Wilmington trailed 2-0 and tied it in the bottom of the fifth on four walks and two RBI groundouts by McMahan and Maloney. In the home half of the sixth they took the lead when Osgood came home on a wild pitch, yet to that point Wilmington still didn't have a hit. They had 14 runners reach base via walks, while they stranded 12 runners to that point, including six in scoring position.

Now in the top of the seventh with two on and one out, a slow roller went past the pitcher's mound and on the very tough play, two throwing errors on that same play allowed all three runners to score including the batter, making it 5-3 in favor of NR.

In the bottom of the seventh, with one aboard and one out, Doyle got the team's lone hit in the game slapping one to left field. Again with runners at second and third and one out, Wilmington stranded them there to end the thrilling game.

Tuesday night the team again hosted Stoneham and again pounded them, this time for 13 runs. McMahan pitched brilliantly while Tildsley set the tone with a bases clearing triple and Osgood and Dave Velardo also played well all-around.

"John pitched really well," said head coach Marty Tildsley. "All of the kids hit the ball really well, it was a good team effort."

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

A design public hearing will be held by the Massachusetts Highway Department to discuss the proposed transportation improvements for I-93 in the Town of Tewksbury.

WHERE: The Town Hall Auditorium
1009 Main Street,
Tewksbury, MA 01876

WHEN: Tuesday, July 28, 1998 at 7:30 P.M.

PURPOSE: To provide the public with an opportunity to become fully acquainted with the proposed transportation improvement project. All views and comments made at this hearing will be reviewed and considered to the maximum extent possible.

PROPOSAL: The proposed project will improve I-93 from Wilmington to the New Hampshire state border. The project area begins just north of the I-93/Route 125 interchange, where I-93 narrows from 8 lanes to 6 lanes, and continues north to the New Hampshire border, a distance of 17 kilometers (10.5 miles). This segment of I-93 lies within the Towns of Wilmington, Tewksbury, Andover and Methuen, Massachusetts.

The purpose of the project is to ease traffic congestion during the daily peak periods by converting the existing shoulder lanes to general purpose travel lanes. Use of shoulder lane as a travel lane requires the construction of emergency turnouts beyond the edge of existing pavement to provide refuge for disabled vehicles when the breakdown lanes are used for travel. These turnouts are planned approximately every 0.8 kilometers (0.5 miles) along I-93 within the project area; except for locations where exit ramps can be used for emergency egress from the roadway. The proposed project comprises the minimal level of improvements needed to reduce peak period congestion in the project area without constructing new lanes.

All work will be done within the existing State Highway Layout.

Written views received by the Department subsequent to the date of this notice and up to five (5) days prior to the date of the hearing shall be displayed for public inspection and copying at the time and date listed above.

Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the public hearing regarding the proposed undertaking are to be submitted to Thomas F. Broderick, P.E., Chief Engineer Massachusetts Highway Department, Ten Park Plaza, Boston, Massachusetts 02116. Such submissions will also be accepted at the hearing. The final date for receipt of these statements and exhibits will be ten (10) days after the public hearing.

Plans will be on display for one half hour before the hearing, with an Engineer in attendance to answer questions regarding this project.

Despite delays Route 38 will be widened, after all that the project was in fact back on schedule.

"The commissioner has made a commitment to the Route 38 project and it will be advertised in July," said Carlisle. "Mr. Miceli has made a compelling case for the project, and the commissioner agreed."

Miceli responded to Newhouse's recent press releases by saying that he is committed to the project which he hopes will be underway soon.

"The town was interested [in the project] and I'm helping to make it happen," said Miceli.

"The bottom line is that I got it done and hopefully we'll be turning the first spadeful of earth on that corridor shortly."

In a second release Newhouse said that he was elated by the news that the corridor project will be put back on the bidding table, although he countered that no progress would have been made had he not got the word out to the town's voters.

"If it hadn't been for me telling the voters of Wilmington that the project was stalled, then Jim Miceli would never have taken the action that he should have taken months ago," said Newhouse. "I'm happy that this project appears finally to be moving, but it has already taken too long."

On the other hand, Miceli said that politics should be put aside when situations such as this arise.

"Newhouse, as a selectman, should have given me a call, given me a chance. We are all working for the town. But his first reaction was to put out a press release," said Miceli, adding that the statements in the recent releases were "absolutely incorrect" and "half-truths."

Also, Newhouse stated that the project was obviously going out to bid on its merits alone and without influence.

"We didn't need clout to move it forward," said Newhouse. "We only needed some energetic leadership. And since we haven't had any, the Route 38 project has been delayed months."

While Miceli said that there may be some bumps ahead while orchestrating the two large construction projects, he urged that people work together to ensure the projects' timely and successful completions. Also Miceli defended his record which had been questioned by Newhouse in the past weeks.

"It's always the individual who has nothing to say attacking another person's record," said Miceli. "I've yet to hear of anything he has done of a positive nature."

In the meantime, town officials are expecting to run the corridor reconstruction project in conjunction with the much-anticipated Lowell Street sewer project to help ease the strain on motorists and residents as well as to save time and money.

Museum of Science has Giganotosaurus

BOSTON - When discovered in Argentina, it became the new heavyweight champion of meat eating dinosaurs. It stood larger than T. rex. Now a replica of the skull of the dagger-toothed Giganotosaurus lives in the lobby of the Museum of Science.

The six foot long skull was unveiled in the Museum's lobby on Thursday, July 16. On hand was the New Hampshire man who donated to the Museum of Science the museum quality replica of the Giganotosaurus skull that he won through some Internet sleuthing.

Bob Roy of Amherst, N.H. was one of four finalists of the worldwide dinosaur contest on the Internet, wherein contestants had to guess where organizers had buried the replica. He traveled to Pillsbury State Park in Washington, N.H. and won the replica when he uncovered it on park grounds - a feat that was broadcast on Good Morning America.

Also present at the unveiling was the creator of the skull replica and the Internet contest, Don Lessem of Dinosaur Productions, Inc. in Newton, Mass. Pre-schoolers from Paige Academy in Roxbury, Mass. joined the celebration by singing dinosaur songs.

The remains of a Giganotosaurus, the largest carnivorous dinosaur known, were first discovered in 1993 in Northern Patagonia, Argentina. The creature is said to be about 45 feet long and more than eight tons in weight. The first full skeleton of the Giganotosaurus debuted in Philadelphia only last year.

The skull replica is a welcome addition to the dinosaur collection at the Museum of Science, which also displays a one and a-half story Tyrannosaurus rex, a Triceratops skeleton and the cast of the footprints of a Apatasaurus dinosaur discovered in Texas. The new Giganotosaurus skull will be on permanent display in the Museum's lobby. Call the Museum at 617-723-2500 for more information.

Little known facts

*The Giganotosaurus was discovered in Argentina in 1993 (only five years ago!)

*Ruben Carolini, an Argentine auto mechanic and amateur fossil hunter, found the shinbone of the Giganotosaurus sticking out of the floor of the Patagonian desert.

*The Giganotosaurus was 45 feet long and weighed eight tons or more.

*It is now the largest meat-eating dinosaur known - even larger than the T. rex

*The Giganotosaurus and the T. rex probably never roamed the earth at the same time. The Giganotosaurus dates back to 100 million years ago and the T. rex dates back to 70 million years ago.

*The Giganotosaurus had three fingers on each hand while the T. rex had two.

*It was fiercer than the T. rex and its eight inch serrated knife shaped teeth killed prey 10 times its size.

*It has the longest skull of any dinosaur ever found. The skull was six feet long but despite its large size, the Giganotosaurus had a small brain.

*The strong resemblance between Giganotosaurus and a North African dinosaur called Carcharodontosaurus may show that Africa and South America remained joined longer than previously thought. This is an important find - shedding new light on the evolution of dinosaurs and continental drift.

*The original bones of the Giganotosaurus will remain at the Carmen Funes Museum in Plaza Huincal, Argentina. They will remain there for scientific study.

*A cast of the Giganotosaurus skull was donated to the Museum of Science on July 16, 1998 by Bob Roy, a retired resident of N.H. who won the skill through an online contest. The skull was created by Don Lessem of Dinosaur Productions, Inc.

Birthday, 1789

AT THE BENNETT Street Carhouse in 1957 a Pullman Coach 8126 sits beside an ACF-Brill 8717. Just two examples of the "modern day" trackless trolleys that were familiar to the streets of Greater Boston as part of the MTA's system of street vehicles, subway and elevated cars that served the people of the area for as little as 5¢ per person with a transfer.

Woodchips

I'm just about getting my hearing back after attending my niece Elaine's wedding to, Bruce Wise. Both are in the Marine Corps and were honored with a Marine detail resplendent in their dress blues. I had a great time with my relatives and friends and making new acquaintances at the reception.

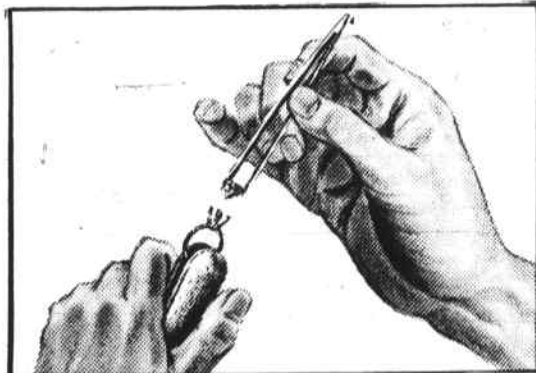

THEN something hit the fan-the MUSIC? started. I must be getting old and grouchy. I just can't stand this ear-shattering loud disco, mombo jumbo-

Bongo-Bongo excuse for music. I heard native jungle music in the South Pacific that sounded more melodious.

I think the world of Fire Chief Dan Doherty. He told me he reads Woodchips every week which means to me that among the many wonderful attributes Dan also has a keen sense of humor.

Boring summer? The "T" may help

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

On vacation and thinking of taking the children on a tour of historical Boston, but you do not want to deal with the "Big Dig."

Believe it or not this is not the first big dig that Boston has had to endure, and the original one which occurred in the early 1890's will be of great assistance to you today.

In his book "Change at Park Street Under" Brian Cudahy studies the changes that have evolved the company once known as the West End Street Railway (1897-1897) into the Boston Elevated Railway Company (BERY or the E1, 1897-1947) and then into the Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA 1947-1964) and finally into the Massachusetts Transportation Authority (MBTA or T) that we know today. Ironically, although the company was known as the E1 because of its system of elevated rail tracks

Woodchips

From S-1
San Andrea Fault area of California my cousin Doreen sent her 5-year old son Tommy back east to live with his grandmother, until the alert was over. Two weeks later Doreen received this telegram, "Take back your super-active son Tommy and, send ME YOUR EARTHQUAKE!"

Personal ad in the Farmer's Newsletter, "WANTED, by farmer 42, women about 30ish who drives a tractor. Please enclose a picture of the TRACTOR!"

I heard that the Hilton-chain of hotels may buy the Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy. It could be renamed, "The Tilting Hilton!"

Frank Perdue won the "Pullet Sur-Prize."

My cousin Angelo Quaganti told me he was three years in the fourth grade. His father was in the fifth grade and he warned, Angelo, "if you go ahead of me, I'll kill you!"

I took Kathy out to dinner and while dining I noticed that a man at an adjacent table suddenly slumped to the floor under the table. I rushed over and said, "Ma'am. I'm an expert at CPR and your husband is under the table may I help?" "No!" she whispered "my husband just walked in the door!"

The way Kathy cooks I wish someone invents a STOVE that can be FLUSHED!

Aunt Nora asked a travel agent if she could get to Niagara Falls by Buffalo? The agent smiled and said, "Ma'am, at your age, you would be better off going by BUS!"

PERSONALITY WINNERS, Kelly McKenna, Kimberlee Murphy, Jim Holleran, Jill Murphy, Mike Provinzano all of WOBURN.

David Boettcher, Jeff King, Paul Koslowski, Jeremy Carroll, John Bram all of WINCHESTER.

Sean Leonard, Tara Woodside, Michael Tarantino, Deon Gray, Brian McCarthy all of WILMINGTON.

Marylou Lossman, Jennifer Shattuck, Robert Clark, Lauren, Gustus, Jen Baldwin all of TEWKSBURY.

Effie Hios, Jill Gonnarn, Marissa Feinberg, Nicholeen DePersis, Hanh Chu and Harley Carroll all of LYNNFIELD.

SUPERSTARS, Dennis Wigandt of STONEHAM, Rodney Bezerra of WOBURN, Phil Campbell of LYNNFIELD and Angela Cairra of WILMINGTON.

I was holding a line fishing off the General Edwards Bridge when a car stopped. It was my Aunt Nora, who rolled down the window and shouted, "Hey what are you doing, fishing?" "No I'm NOT fishing, I'm teaching a WORM how to swim!" "Oh Chipper," she snapped back, "there's a worm on the 'OTHER' end of that line TOO?"

My friend Peggy Walsh told me that her sister Kathleen joined an order of Nuns, where only two personal words were permitted every five years. Her first two words were, "Cell Cold." The Mother Superior wrote them down and promptly forgot them. Five more years went by and Kathleen's two words were,

"Food Bad." Five years later she exploded with, "I QUIT!!" "GOOD," the Mother Superior replied, "You've been nothing but a chronic complainer since the day you got here!"

I remember when a man from the Netherlands told Uncle

John Shea that their flag has the same, Red, White, and Blue colors as the American Flag. "Uncle John Shea replied, "that may be BUT although we see those colors in Old Glory, we also see STARS especially when we pay our Income Taxes!"

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

Doing good, and then some

From Woburn and Winchester to the world around

"Hundreds of Woburn residents, patients, friends and professional colleagues, as well as the staff of Woburn Medical Associates, paid tribute to Dr. David E. P. Fitzpatrick on the occasion of his retirement from practice with Woburn Medical Associates," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The reception was held at the Terrace Room at New Horizons."

"Dr. Fitzpatrick was well known at the Winchester Hospital over the years, as well as for many years at the former Choate Memorial Hospital."

"Proclamations from Mayor Robert Dever and State Representative Carol A. Donovan were read, following which Dr. Fitzpatrick was the brunt of several roasts, including parody at the Mayor's Proclamation.

"He received several renderings of special art works depicting his colleagues, along with other mementos. A delicious buffet was enjoyed along with special desserts."

"Fitzpatrick has practiced Internal Medicine in Woburn since the days when he was associated with the late Dr. Leonard Wolsky on Warren Avenue, Woburn."

"He became a charter member of the Woburn Medical Associates when the group opened its medical offices at the Medical Center at Choate...."

From Tewksbury and Wilmington to Alabama

"Chopping firewood, painting walls, and building a porch was how several UMass-Lowell students, under the direction of Fr. Paul Soper of the UMass-Lowell Catholic Center, travelled to Pittsview, Ala. To help its residents," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Thirteen students participated in the community service project, including: Stefanie Kushnieruk of Tewksbury, a senior in biological sciences; Steven Lynn of Wilmington, a senior in environmental science with an emphasis on language, also travelled to Alabama and Peru last year; Brion Berghaus of Wilmington, a senior in history."

"Pittsview, Ala. is located in Russell County, which is the second poorest region in the country. The volunteers were divided into work groups and the projects were all completed within 10 days. The Alabama community service trip has been an annual event for 10 years."

From Lynnfield to Boston

"The Big Sister Association of Greater Boston named Moran Rd. resident Jill Jorgenson a Big Sister of the Year for 1998," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The honor, given to five Big Sister volunteers who exhibit extraordinary commitment and dedication to their Little Sisters, was awarded at the agency's Annual Meeting."

"Matched for nearly two years, Jill and Little Sister Elizabeth have shared a friendship characterized by adventure and enthusiasm. The two share a love of the outdoors, and together have been hiking, biking, canoeing and camping. 'I didn't know you could get an award for having so much fun,' expressed Jorgenson as she accepted her Big Sister of the Year honor."

"According to Cathy Bryson, their caseworker at the Big Sister Association, Jill and Elizabeth share an enthusiasm about their relationship that allows their friendship to thrive. 'Jill's commitment to Elizabeth and to the mission of the Big Sister Association has made her a worthy recipient of this honor,' stated Bryson."

"Big Sisters such as Jill serve as shining examples of what the Big Sister program is all about - friendship, caring and support," stated Jerry Martinson, Executive Director of the Big Sister Association. "All of our Big Sisters should be recognized for their commitment to helping a girl in the community live up to her full potential...."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About the Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

The "T"

that carried traffic above Boston's crowded downtown streets, it was also the company that developed the first subway system in the United States.

So, instead of taking a car to Boston and adding to the traffic and pollution, ride in comfort, on a part of the city's history as you travel to partake in the country's history. People in the Middlesex East area need only travel to nearby Wilmington, Woburn (area's largest commuter parking lot), Reading (be careful of parking restrictions) or Wakefield to start their journey into history.

At the above locations one can board a commuter rail, operated by AMTRAK for the T, and ride into North Station. This is the northern hub of the T's system where you:

- can start a walking tour of the Freedom Trail;

- transfer to the Green Line for a quick trip to the Museum of Science or into Park Street Under and visit the oldest station in Boston's subway station; or get on the Orange Line for trips to downtown or out to Arnold Arboretum and the Franklin Park Zoo.

The choices are many so grab onto your hand-strap and let's roll to the beat of the train as we travel into some of the historic and even contemporary stops of today.

As you get off at North Station, you are within walking distance of Charlestown, with its Bunker Hill Monument (on Breed's Hill) The U.S.S. Constitution (Old Ironsides) and the Warren Tavern.

The Bunker Hill Monument is an obelisk tower that marks the site of the first major battle of the Revolution. The kids will have fun running up the several hundred steps to the top of the obelisk (sorry no elevator) to enjoy the view of Boston and nearby Boston Harbor. The monument is open daily from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the visitors' lodge is open until 5 p.m. (call 617-242-5641 for more information). To continue the walking tour come back down to the Charlestown Navy Yard where the oldest commissioned fighting ship in the U.S. Navy (Old Ironsides) is berthed along with the World War II era destroyer, U.S.S. Cassin Young.

The Visitor Center and the U.S.S. Constitution Museum is open daily for tours. For more information call: (617)242-5670 for the U.S.S. Constitution; (617) 242-5604 for the U.S.S. Cassin Young; and (617) 426-1812 for the U.S.S. Constitution Museum.

As the walking tour continues the visitor can retrace their steps over the mouth of the Charles River take a left onto Commercial Street into Boston's North End for a visit to the Copp's Hill Burying Ground (on Hull Street up the hill from the Old North Church).

The 1659 burying ground is described as a "wonderful place for old epitaphs."

From the Copp's travel to Salem Street in the North End and visit Old North Church, from which Paul Revere received his famous "One if by land, two if by sea," signal that started the ride he and William Dawes took to warn the outlying revolutionaries that the British were coming. Also in the area is the Paul Revere House.

After the North End visit, perhaps with a stop for some good Italian food or a refreshing Italian Ice one can walk (there are busses if the feet are too weary) to the Government Center stop and pick up the T once more.

Once again you are on historic ground as the Government Center is the site of the old Scollay Square station, famous to many sailors in the pre and post-World War II eras.

A ride on the Green line from Government Center will bring you to Park Street Under. The station has been made famous in book, song (the Kingston Trio's Charley on the MTA) and even a television show (Park Street Under with Boston comedian Steve Sweeney).

The station has always been a transfer point for the many different lines of the T ever since it was first built by the BERY. In 1897 cars came into the station from the south where they entered the subway from the South End's junction of Broadway and Tremont Street, the north where the line came in from the West End's Haymarket Square station and the west where the tunnel started at the Boylston Street end of the Public Gardens.

Even in the 1890's tunneling was not an attractive idea but the traffic of the time required an alternative. Plans were studied for an elevated line and although that was good enough for the rest of the Greater Boston area, it would not have been good for the downtown area and the nearby Beacon Hill edifices.

As you climb out of Park Street you are right in the heart of Boston's downtown and Beacon Hill. Just a few steps away from the State House, the Park Street Church, Kings Chapel and the Old South Church.

However, if you chose to go down to the Red Line you would be whisked by fast modern cars, certainly not reminiscent of the old wooden cars of just 40 years ago, to such places as Downtown Crossing, the hub of Boston's shopping district, or even take the train out to Quincy Center where you will be near the homes of America's second and sixth presidents, John Adams and his son John Quincy Adams.

If the trip into Government Center had put you on the Blue Line you could have taken the subway to either State Street or to the Aquarium stations and visited such sites as the Aquarium or Faneuil Hall and of course eaten and shopped in Boston's Quincy Market Place.

Today, although the elevated system has been torn down, for the most part, the T is not just a line of subways. It also encompasses alternative travel such as boats to both the North Shore and the South Shore for a different type of trip to the seashore communities of Massachusetts Bay.

Even today's Big Dig is taking the 19th century's Big Dig into consideration and expanding it to reach out from South Station to the Boston Harbor district. Another irony is that along the history of the subway system, the MTA encompassed a series of trackless trolley lines where rubber tired busses, powered by electricity, fed from lines above, were the quiet transportation in many communities.

Although the new rubber tired trains will not run on the streets they are being contemplated for the new line and they will be powered by electricity from a third rail.

As the old saying goes, "The more things change, the more they stay the same."

If you have not experienced a trackless trolley, take the Red Line to historic Harvard Square where you can transfer to one of the street level vehicles for a ride (oftentimes slow because the trolleys come off the wires at certain junctions) to Belmont or Watertown.

Ironies are a fact of life on the MBTA, as the talk today is of privatization of some of the lines, one must remember that the service is a conglomeration of street, elevated and subway lines that could not make it independently and were gathered together so that everyone could enjoy public transportation when and where they need it.

Thanks go to John McCarthy, former Wakefield Town Accountant/Executive Secretary, who was a member of the MBTA Advisory Board and provided many historical documents from which the facts of this story were gleaned.

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

A recent turn of events in the world of professional hockey could have a significant impact on several local college hockey prospects.

The first event was Boston University defenseman Tom Poti's decision to leave the school after his sophomore year and sign an NHL contract.

B.U. senior blueliner Dan Ronan of Woburn has seen regular ice time under coach Jack Parker and should continue to do so next season. However, freshman hopefuls Chris Dymont of Reading and Pat Aufiero from Winchester could now be catapulted into heavy offensive action, as Poti was Terriers best offensive defenseman.

Dymont rewrote many Middlesex League offensive records for defensemen, and Aufiero was a tremendous offensive weapon for Winchester High before opting to play Junior A hockey.

Dymont and Aufiero went head to head on opposite teams two years ago, and now they may do it again battling for ice time.

A second item that could impact both these players was the signing of Arlington's Paul Mara to a $5.8 million NHL contract.

Mara and Dymont were teammates on the sophomore Hockey Night in Boston team four summers ago and at that time there were those that felt Dymont was the better player of the two.

Mara was bigger and stronger, but Dymont displayed puck skills and hockey sense that was every bit as good or better than Mara, according to some observers. Dymont has opted to play for B.U. and will not be eligible for the Entry Draft until next year.

MESSIAH LUTHERAN CHURCH BIBLE SCHOOL

Messiah Lutheran Church, corner of Chestnut and Lowell Sts., Lynnfield (781 334-4111) is pleased to invite any child, Preschool (3 or 4 year old) to completed grade six, to this year's Vacation Bible School from July 27 to July 31, 9 am to noon with a closing refreshment and "show-and-tell" on Friday evening from 7 to 8:30 pm.

"Light House Adventure - Jesus Lights the Way" is being conducted by members of Messiah Lutheran Church with Mrs. Marie Stultz, founder and artistic director of the Treble Chorus of New England, teaching Christian songs to all age groups.

What's the Lighthouse Adventure about? Life in and near the ocean captivates everyone. Sandy beaches, tide pools, sea life, and migrating whales fascinate us. Yet sailors and those who live near the sea know that this intriguing beauty coexists with danger. Whitecaps, riptides, fog, dangerous reefs, and sudden storms.

Our world, like the ocean, is both intriguing and dangerous. Like sailors on the open sea, we need dependable Lighthouses to guide and direct us past dangers to safe passage and safe harbors.

Jesus said, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows Me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life," (John 8:12). By His life, death and resurrection, He came to guide us into life with our God.

We hope you will bring your children to learn and share the guidance of Jesus Christ through the image of "The Lighthouse Adventure - Jesus Lights the Way!"

Our daily program consists of opening worship, lessons, crafts, refreshments and song, closing social and "show and tell" with children's singing. For more information, please phone Messiah Lutheran Church 781-334-4111.

MOVIE REVIEWS

BY PAUL FEELY

"Something About Mary" obnoxiously funny

MOVIE: "THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT MARY"
GRADE: *****

Review: This movie is the funniest, laugh-till-it-hurts comedy to come around in a long time, and is sure to leave you with tears in your eyes once the house lights come up. Having said that, here's a warning: this brand of comedy isn't for everyone.

The Farrelly brothers, Bobby and Peter (who were responsible for hits like 'Dumb and Dumber' and 'Kingpin') have done it again, taking a situation comedy and pushing the limits of both comedy and decency. You'll find yourself laughing at many of the sight gags in spite of yourself, even though many of them seem to have jumped off the pages of a 'Truly Tasteless' joke book.

Ben Stiller is very funny as a man who still hasn't lost his feelings for a girl he had one (almost) date with in high school, and Cameron Diaz (who plays the title character Mary) puts in a very good performance as the object of his affection. Matt Dillon is also good as a sleazy private eye, who ends up falling for Diaz's character as well.

Overall, the movie is very funny, but some people may find the humor a bit too obnoxious for their taste.

Rated: R
Length: 96 minutes

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "LETHAL WEAPON 4"
GRADE: *****

Review: The biggest question one has when walking out of the theater after seeing this film is, 'Why?'

It's minutely interesting to see the characters of Martin Riggs and Roger Murtaugh (played once again by Mel Gibson and Danny Glover) deal with the issues of fatherhood and grandfatherhood, respectively, but the plotline does little else with them that is innovative or new.

Rene Russo and Joe Pesci are back to reprise their roles in a plotline that involves counterfeit Chinese money and smuggling in Chinese workers for slave labor, but both are given very little to work with in the plot. Russo is carrying Gibson's baby, and the question of whether or not they should get married is carried from the opening sequence until the closing credits.

Chris Rock steals the film as Murtaugh's new son-in-law, and the stunts are once again top notch, as in the three previous installments of this series. It's great to see the fun that Gibson and Glover have together on screen, but unless the writers can come up with a better storyline, any ideas for "Lethal Weapon 5" should be left on the shelf.

Rated: R
Length: 123 minutes

MOVIE: "ARMAGEDDON"
GRADE: *****

Review: The three star rating for this one is given for the sheer spectacle of this summer blockbuster, and certainly not for the plotline or the performances.

This film basically takes the plotline of a film released earlier this year, "Deep Impact", and does a poorer job of bringing it to the big screen. Once again a giant asteroid is hurtling towards Earth, and if it hits all life on this planet will be snuffed out. Manhattan once again gets leveled, and a team of heroes is sent to land on the asteroid and try to change its flight path away from Earth. Sound familiar?

Bruce Willis, Liv Tyler, Ben Affleck and Billy Bob Thornton make the best of the roles they are given, but Steve Buscemi steals the film as a genius hooked on pornography.

The script is a bit hokey, the plotline is predictable (especially if you saw the other film), but the sheer size and scope of the stunts, the volume of the soundtrack, and the special effects will help carry you into another world for two-and-a-half hours, which is what we look for in a summer movie anyway, isn't it?

Rated: PG-13
Length: 151 minutes

MOVIE: "OUT OF SIGHT"
GRADE: *****

Review: This excellent adaptation of an Elmore Leonard novel shows that George Clooney is not making a mistake by leaving the cast of the television series "ER" to pursue a movie career.

Clooney's performance lately made one wonder if he should stay on the small screen, but he carries this film very easily as bank robber who falls for the federal agent who is after him, played by Jennifer Lopez. There are also strong performances turned in by Dennis Farina and Albert Brooks, as well Ving Rhames (it seems like this fine actor has a bit part in almost every movie made these days).

The attraction between Clooney's and Lopez's characters is easy to pick up on, and both make it believable as the relationship heats up.

Any fan of Elmore Leonard novels knows that they contain many plot twists and turns, and this adaptation is true to form.

Rated: R (Mature themes, violence)
Length: 126 minutes

MOVIE: "THE X-FILES: FIGHT THE FUTURE"
GRADE: ******

Review: The tag line for the show may be "Trust No One", but trust me when I tell you this: both diehard fans and first-time viewers will not be disappointed by this big screen version of the hit television series.

Producer/Creator Chris Carter successfully brings the characters of Fox Mulder (David Duchovny) and Dana Scully (Gillian Anderson) to Hollywood, along with the regu-

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Soaring to success

Flying high in Stoneham

"When Space Shuttle mission STS-95 launches in October, returning John Glenn to space for the first time since his first trip more than 34 years ago, the senator and his crewmates will be carrying some very unusual cargo: the signatures of over 500,000 elementary and middle school students," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Among the signatures will be those of Central School students."

"Dubbed 'Student Signatures in Space,' the project was created to celebrate Space Day, designated as May 21 this year. Lockheed-Martin, creator of Space Day, selected 537 schools (418 domestic, 119 international), as well as 71 children's museums and 100 domestic and international Girl Scout councils to participate. The schools and organizations were sent giant posters for their students to sign, along with supporting educational materials and program memorabilia."

"The students signed the posters on Space Day (or as close to Space Day as curriculums accommodated). The posters will be returned to Lockheed-Martin, and the signatures will be scanned onto a disk, which will be carried into space by Glenn and his crewmates. Following the mission, the posters will be returned to the schools for display, along with a NASA certification of space flight and a crew photo...."

Hanging out in Reading

"I would like to take this opportunity to commend all the students who participated in Homework Hangout this year," notes Marie T. Pink in Reading's "Coolidge Ledger."

"Although they certainly reap the benefits of staying in school for that extra hour, let us not delude ourselves that it is easy for them to commit to this. Without the support of staff members who supervise the fifty students enrolled, for a very small stipend, this popular program would not exist. I would like to recognize Ms. Abel, Ms. Anderson, Mrs. DiCarlo, and Mrs. Kelley for the time donated....If your child has been a faithful member of this program, please try to monitor their homework completion through the end of the year. Students, in general, tend to finish school four to six weeks prior to the last day. I am currently seeking parent volunteers to assist with this program next year. We had approximately eighty students enrolled this year and found ourselves maintaining a wait list when enrollment exceeded fifty at any one time. When originally planned, the idea was to keep student enrollment to ten to fifteen students per adult. Although this idea definitely had merit it is very difficult to turn students away from a program designed to benefit their educational experience. I also need to applaud Mrs. Begonis for accepting one task into her incredibly busy day by making the phone calls home to the parents of students who were not accounted for each afternoon. Please give some serious thought to lending us an hour or half hour each week next year to keep this growing program available to all interested Coolidge students. Please contact me at the main office number if you are interested in helping out."

Working hard in Burlington

"A report on the MCAS tests, strides in the school-to-career program, and the student handbook were among the topics High School Principal Dr. Maynard Suffredini discussed with the School Committee....," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The principal was before the board presenting the annual update on the Burlington High School Improvement Plan.

"The school board voted 4-0 - Jack Lyons was absent - to approve the plan."

"Tenth graders recently completed the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment Systems (MCAS) tests."

"School Committee member Thomas F. Murphy Jr. asked Suffredini how the testing went."

"I was very pleased with the way the students responded to the tests," said Suffredini.

"A lot of changes took place leading up to the actual testing," Suffredini continued. "I was very impressed with the purpose and seriousness of the students."

"The principal went on to say the testing lasted for two weeks and 'every day the faculty was pleased with the overall performance of students.'"

"Suffredini noted the goals of the School Improvement Plan and several were related to the school-to-career program...."

Moms-to-be class

Wellness during and after pregnancy comes from the right balance of proper exercise, good nutrition, emotional support and education and stress reduction. Melrose Wakefield Hospital, a member of Hallmark Health, offers several classes to meet the needs of expectant mothers.

New Beginnings is a special new class for expectant moms and their families and will be held at the Dutton Center in Wakefield on Monday, August 10 from 7 to 9:30 pm.

New Beginnings is designed for women in their first and second trimester and their families to learn about healthy nutrition for pregnancy, breastfeeding and postpartum, fetal development and body changes during pregnancy.

The class will also discuss such topics as morning sickness, food cravings, shopping, quick nutritious meals, sensible weight gain and vitamins and minerals.

The New Beginnings programs were created and are instructed by certified childbirth educators who teach safe and effective stretching and toning exercises to expectant and new mothers.

Registration is required for all prenatal classes. For fees and registration, please call the Childbirth Education Department, Hallmark Health at 781-979-3408.

Bed-wetting increases in summer

July is the busiest month of the year at the bed-wetting hot line as school-age children and their parents grow anxious over changes in routines and sleeping environments. Summer brings on new concerns for the child who wets the bed: worries about overnight camp and fears of "accidents" when invited to a friend's sleep-over.

Nighttime bed-wetting, or nocturnal enuresis, affects one in 10 elementary school-age children. Recent estimates are that five to seven million children in the U.S.A. wet their beds regularly. Yet few parenting issues frustrate parents more or elicit a broader range of responses than bed-wetting.

"Parents call and are desperate for a solution to their child's bed-wetting," said Dawn Rose, Palco Laboratories enuresis counselor. "Their kids are unhappy and they are, too."

Although bed-wetting is not a life threatening condition, it is one that can severely affect the life of the child and parents. This issue often sets parent against child as feelings of frustration and anger surface when parents are awakened repeatedly to change wet sheets or comfort an upset child.

Couples often differ in their perspective on how to deal with bed-wetting. Some lash out at their child, blaming him or her for something that cannot be controlled while others perceive it simply as a "discipline" problem. Some demand that their child wear a diaper to bed. Others punish their children, rubbing their faces in their own wet sheets.

The unfortunate truth is that shame, anger and frustration have overshadowed the simple and effective - mostly because parents are still reluctant to talk about the issue of bed-wetting.

Current research has proven several facts about bed-wetting. •Heredity is a factor. Euro-ethnic families have more difficulty with the problem than those of other backgrounds.

•Being a deep sleeper does not necessarily mean a child will have a harder time learning to control his or her bladder at night.

Research also shows that there are some simple, low-tech, high-result measures that can be taken which don't involve drugs or great cost.

Bed-wetting alarms, used in conjunction with a positive reinforcement program, are very effective in the treatment of enuresis. With a 76 percent success rate, the Wet-Stop is the smallest, lightest, most effective alarm on the market.

The Wet-Stop works by waking a sleeping child as soon as he or she starts to wet. A moisture sensor is placed in a pocket sewn on the child's underwear.

Consumers can request that more information about enuresis, the Wet-Stop or Wiggler be faxed or mailed to them by calling 1-800-549-0676.

Middlesex East REAL ESTATE SECTION

The House of the Week Home with rambling porch

The elegant Greenbriar has a rambling covered porch that spans all 90 feet of its front facade. Classic columns accentuate arched openings, creating an ambience of stately graciousness.

An octagonal nook, far right, is one of the most unique details of this plan. It offers a panoramic view of the surrounding scenery. Display shelves line the passageway that joins with a kitchen designed to accommodate multiple cooks.

In addition to built-in appliances, kitchen features of note include: a huge, angled work island with built-in cooktop and veggie sink; counter space on four sides; a roomy walk-in pantry; and a trash compactor. Pocket doors in the hutch/buffet slide open for easy service between the kitchen and dining room.

Light spills into the den, foyer and dining room through three gabled dormers that face the street. These rooms are already bright. Wide bay windows expand the den and dining room, while sidelights and transom windows surround the door into the vaulted foyer. Plants thrive on high plant shelves that wrap around three sides.

Directly ahead is a barrel-vaulted great room outfitted with a raised hearth fireplace and an entertainment center. French doors at the rear slide open to access a partially covered patio.

Double doors open into a palatial master suite. Both of the large walk-in closets are lined with cedar, and the private bathroom boasts a walk-in shower, soaking tub, private toilet, two basins and a sit-down corner vanity.

Utilities are in the Greenbriar's opposite wing, close to the kitchen and secondary bedrooms. A long, covered breezeway connects the house to the garage with storage room above.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associate Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402.

Please specify the Greenbriar 10-401 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 250 home plans is available for $12.

Water gardens easy, affordable

Would you like to spend a little less time getting your hands dirty this summer, but still enjoy the pleasures of gardening? Then consider building a water pond, a creative alternative to the "average" garden.

Whether they're long and narrow, oval, round, free-form or raised to fit into a deck or cover the rewards of building their own pond, Preston said. Here is his checklist for building a water garden:

LOCATION

Choose a site with at least four hours of sunlight, preferably in the morning because mid-day rays encourage algae you don't disturb buried power lines in the process.

CONSTRUCTION

Begin with the deepest point. A standard depth is 18 inches, but if you add fish, you will need to dig down two to three feet. The bottom of the pond should

The water garden is really nothing more than a man made pond with a liner to contain the water, a pump to circulate it, and a filter to aid in keeping it clean and clear.

A small goldfish pond can be built in about a half-day and cost under $300, while a larger garden with a waterfall may take an entire weekend to complete.

"Water gardens are the hottest landscape item on the market," said Glenn Preston, a Home Depot associate who helps customers design them. "Whether you live in a condo or own 30 acres of land, you can build a water garden to your specific taste."

Water gardens have become a great source of relaxation and fun hobby as homeowners dis-growth. Select a level spot, protected from water runoff which may contain fertilizers or herbicides.

SIZE

First draw your design on paper and then lay it out on the ground, using a garden hose to decide upon the shape. You'll need to measure it so you can purchase the right size liner. don't forget to have your utilities marked before you dig so that be flat, so make sure it is level. Remove all rocks, cut back roots in the basin and add about two inches of sand before putting the liner in place.

Drape the liner in the hole and anchor the edges with weights to preserve its position and form. Use native stone, boulders or discarded brick to finish the edges. Fill the pond with water to just below ground level.

How Americans embraced do-it-yourself

A leaky faucet to fix, a shelf to hang, a room to paint, a basement or attic to convert for more living space. There's always something to do around the house.

Such do-it-yourself projects fuel spending of approximately $140 billion on home repairs and building projects, according to the American Hardware Manufacturers Association.

The impulse to improve the home seems as basic as breathing. But actually, it is learned behavior that emerged this century, according to a group of academics who discussed do-it-yourself repairs recently at the National Building Museum in Washington, D.C.

Such projects spring from the idea that men must be competent at home repairs, yet the concept hardly goes back 100 years.

"In Victorian times, the typical middle-class man avoided home repair chores," said Steven M. Gelber, a professor of history at Santa Clara University in Santa Clara, Calif.

Gelber cited a popular 19th-century book on home decor that told of a carpenter being summoned to hammer a nail in the wall to put up a picture. He traced the change of attitude to the first decades of the 20th century. During these years, American men began building simple furniture in home workshops as a form of arts and crafts.

Books, magazines, pamphlets, advertising campaigns and eventually radio programs began advertising tools and other materials for sale directly to home owners, said Carolyn Goldstein, author of "Do It Yourself: Home Improvement in 20th Century America" (Princeton Architectural Press, $17.95) and a curator at the National Building Museum.

By the 1930s, more than a dozen magazines were being published, including Popular Mechanics, that provided detailed instructions for how-to projects.

When World War II ended in 1945, returning GIs and their families moved into inexpensive new tract houses that needed completing. Easy-to-apply water-based latex paints, pre-pasted wallpaper, plywood panels and less expensive power tools flooded the market. They were publicized in magazines, how-to books and advertising aimed at do-it-yourselfers.

The do-it-yourself market increased the manual-labor skills not only of veterans but also of homemakers — the women who had worked in factories during the war.

By the 1970s, interest in renovating and restoring old houses came to the fore, creating a market for reproduction products and their attendant how-to materials.

Today, there are do-it-yourself stars such as Bob Vila and Martha Stewart, TV programs such as "This Old House," and even an entire cable channel (the Home and Garden Channel) devoted to do-it-yourself projects.

But industry experts say that huge chain stores such as Home Depot are turning remodeling into a profession.

"A newspaper recently ran an article that said doing it yourself is out," Goldstein said. "My friends go there (Home Depot) and pick out kitchen cabinets that are installed by professionals."

Panelist Bruce Irving, producer of "This Old House," said that the 20-year-old show has changed as have its stories and viewers. At first, the show concentrated on small projects.
